■ Turnover in large-scale food retailing - June 2017

In June 2017, the turnover grew slightly in large-scale food retailing (+0.2%)

In June 2017, the turnover in large-scale food retailing rose again, more slightly than in May (+0.2% after +0.4%). The sales volume bounced back in food products (+1.4% after -0.2% in May). By contrast, sales of non-food products slipped back (-1.7% after +3.1%) and sales of automotive fuel sank (-6.0% after +0.6%). In June, sales in supermarkets somewhat recovered (+0.5% after -1.0%), whereas they were virtually stable in hypermarkets (-0.1% after +1.0%).

Near stability over the last three months

Over the last three months, the turnover in large-scale food retailing was practically stable compared to the previous three months. Over that period, sales went up in food products (+0.9%) and in non-food products (+0.9%). By contrast, they fell sharply in automotive fuel (-5.7%). The turnover was virtually stable in supermarkets as well as in hypermarkets.

Growth of 2.0% over a year

The turnover of the past three months in large-scale food retailing rose by 2.0% compared to the same period a year earlier. While sales of automotive fuel surged (+8.4%), boosted by the upturn in fuel prices, the turnover declined in non-food products (-1.7%) and rose moderately in food products (+1.2%).

Year on year, sales increased markedly in supermarkets (+3.2%) and more modestly in hypermarkets (+0.9%).
